

Dover (USA), Paris (France), Marcq-en-Baroeul (France) – July 15th 2009. The directory of the engineers alumni of Arts and Jobs is announcing the launch of Tiogadz.org. From now on, all the engineers trained by the School of Arts and Jobs Paris Tech with an account at gadz.org can manage free of charge their entire business (accounting, inventory, management, management of documents ...) with the online software TioLive ERP. Gadz.org becomes the precursor of Cloud Computing in France and has once again taken up the challenge of innovation on the Internet. Laurent Pennou, Vice-President of Gadz.org, said: "TioGadz makes it possible for the 24000 engineers of Arts and Jobs with an email address at gadz.org to have instantly and free of charge a complete ERP / CRM. This ERP is available at tio.gadz.org and was first introduced during the TGO 2009.

Antoine Cahen, General Manager of TioLive LLC, has added: "TioGadz is a variation of TioLive for entrepreneurs of Arts and Jobs. An engineer of Arts and Jobs can now have a complete information system for his business in less than 5 minutes."

Jean-Paul Smets, CEO of Nexedi, said: "TioGadz is based on 100% free and decentralized Cloud Computing technologies. TioGadz demonstrates that there is a viable alternative around our ERP5 to provide engineering associations with a mail online environment, IP telephony, chat and a complete workspace without losing control of sensitive data."

Laurent Pennou, Vice-President of Gadz.org, concludes: "with the association having all source code and access to all the data, we can guarantee to our members the security, the freedom to leave the tool when the time comes and the transparency without any loss of data. TioGadz allows an unparalleled level of confidence in the Cloud Computing."
